Southwest Ontario Aboriginal Health Access Centre (SOAHAC) is a diverse, dynamic, multiservice Indigenous health and wellness agency. We strive to provide quality, wholistic health services by sharing and promoting traditional and western health practices to enable people to live in a more balanced state of well-being. SOAHAC provides services to Indigenous people including those who live on and off reserve, status, non-status, Inuit, and Métis within the Southwest, Waterloo-Wellington and Erie St Clair regions. SOAHAC has a mandate of ensuring that health services are accessible, of high quality, and are culturally appropriate. It is SOAHAC's objective to build health care capacity within Indigenous communities. Currently, we are seeking the services of a Registered Nurse (RN) to join our interdisciplinary staff team, supporting the Region of Waterloo.

Reporting to the Integrated Care Manager in Cambridge, the Registered Nurse will facilitate the development, implementation, and adaptation of a care plan, deliver direct care, and provide case management to assist families accessing the Indigenous Healthy Child Development (IHCD) program focused on supporting families with children ages 0-6. The IHCD provides wrap around care to support the wholistic (spiritual, cultural, emotional, physical) well being of families using a strength-based approach. The Registered Nurse will consult with doctors, consultants and community specialists as required to provide safe and timely care. This position will consist of both, on site clinic, home visits (as requested by clients) and community outreach in the Region of Waterloo. The RN will work in partnership with the IHCD Family Support Worker and the Region of Waterloo's Healthy Babies Healthy Children Program.

Requirements

- A Registered Nurse (RN) in good standing with the College of Nurses of Ontario
- A minimum of three (3) years of experience preferably in community or primary care
- Experience working with Indigenous people in community-based settings is an asset
- Demonstrated ability to provide client-focused, trauma informed and culturally safe care
- Demonstrated ability to complete initial and ongoing client assessments (clinical and diagnostic reasoning) and provide nursing care through evidence-based guidelines
- Demonstrated ability to manage time and resources effectively

- Sound knowledge of community health practice, assessment of milestones, the mental well-being of caregivers, prenatal and postnatal nursing practice within a client- and caregiver-centred care approach
- Effective leadership capabilities and strong ethical standards and a commitment to professional development and life-long learning
- Effective working independently and in a team environment
- Excellent skills in case management and working with/coordinating interdisciplinary care teams
- Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively with clients, families, public, community partners, primary care team members and other professionals and agencies using verbal, written and computer communication means
- Demonstrated critical thinking skills within scope of practice including clinical judgment and problem-solving skills
- Knowledge of transitions through continuums of care
- Knowledge of other health care professions and their role in client care.
- Valid Ontario Driver's "G" license; personal auto insurance and access to a reliable vehicle
- Willingness to participate in Indigenous Cultural Safety Training, teachings and ceremonies
- Clean and current vulnerable sector police check as a condition of employment
- Up to date immunization record

Responsibilities

- Provide direct nursing care and health education to clients and families
- Recognize the importance of Indigenous cultural identity as part of a healthy, balanced lifestyle for individuals within a community
- Maintain accurate client health records and fulfill reporting requirements
- Deliver health promotion, prevention and education programs from start to finish and often independently
- Conduct comprehensive assessments and plans of care for assigned clients and their families that are developed collaboratively based on their unique needs. Plans of care will include both short term and long-term care requirements that address physical, mental, social, spiritual and emotional needs
- Explore, understand and develop a strong network of social care supports including optimizing the client's informal supports
- Advocate for services that promote, and protect the health and well being of individuals, families, groups and community
- Support clients and their families to develop self-care strategies, anticipate and address health issues, as well as optimize their health through effective health promotion strategies. This may include developing individual and/or group-based programs
- Work in partnership with other programs and organizations to develop health promotion, chronic disease management, prenatal and postnatal care and mental health support strategies
- Advocate for and uses culturally relevant and appropriate approaches when building relationships and providing nursing services
- Understand and respects cultural principles and protocols and applies this understanding in work situations
- Use evidence and research to influence health policies, programs and practices and synthesizes nursing and health knowledge from a broad range of theories, models and frameworks to address the health status of populations, inequities in health, determinants of health, strategies for health promotion, disease and injury prevention, health protection, case management, as well as the factors that influence the delivery and use of nursing and health services
- Involve individuals, families, groups, and communities as active partners to take action to address health inequities and foster a self management care approach for chronic conditions

- Participate in staff meetings and training with SOAHAC and Healthy Babies Health Children (Region of Waterloo)
- Build capacity, improves performance and enhances the quality of the working environment by sharing knowledge, expertise, and experience with colleagues, students
- A significant part of the RN role includes addressing issues related to social determinants of health that may act as barriers to wellness. This means assisting the family link and successfully engage with community and governmental supports to address issues such as social supports, housing, income and safety
